

VAIL VALLEY SCENERY

Ski & Snowboard Club Vail's longterm impact on athletes

Daily staff report
newsroom@vaildaily.com

Larkspur Restaurant provided the perfect setting for Ski & Snowboard Club Vail's Leadership Council Dinner and Live Auction on Nov 22. Annual campaign supporters at the $1,500 or above level along with Ski & Snowboard Club Vail staff gathered to celebrate the start of the season. Ski & Snowboard Club Vail alumni guest speakers David Viele (who is also a Ski & Snowboard Club Vail trustee) and Jesse Maddex shared with the crowd all that Ski & Snowboard Club Vail has done in their lives through the vehicle of competitive snowsports long after their athlete days at Ski & Snowboard Club Vail were over.

Three young, current Ski & Snowboard Club Vail athletes shared on stage with Aldo Radamus, executive director, about their aspirations and what they are most thankful for at Ski & Snowboard Club Vail, which was a highlight of the evening.

A festive and philanthropic spirit filled the air as guests generously supported the live auction and raised additional support for the Ski & Snowboard Club Vail scholarship fund.

Ski & Snowboard Club Vail is grateful for the support of its current and past families and community members along with its generous sponsors and auction donors for all they make possible in building character, courage and commitment in the youth of the Vail Valley and for an inspiring Leadership Council Dinner and Live Auction.

Young Ski & Snowboard Club Vail athletes on hand at SSCV's Leadership Council Dinner and Live Auction remind guests of just how meaningful their experiences at SSCV are and the dreams and aspirations they have in their snowsport.

PHOTOS SPECIAL TO THE DAILY

Ski & Snowboard Club Vail Executive Director Aldo Radamus, left, and SSCV alpine alumnus Jesse Maddex, right, reunite at the Leadership Council Dinner and Live Auction last month in Vail. Maddex shared the important role that SSCV played in his life as he grew up.

Dwight and Angie Merriman enjoy an evening out at Larkspur Restaurant in support of Ski & Snowboard Club Vail athletes.

From left, Suzi and Mike Bailey along with Brenda Kirwood, parents of Ski & Snowboard Club Vail U21 alpine racers, celebrate all that is in store for the upcoming season at the Ski & Snowboard Club Vail's Leadership Council Dinner and Live Auction.

On The Hill — Vail & Beaver Creek
What's it really like today?
Check it out — every morning — around 10am
Vaildaily.com